Dearest Boy

Thu dear little cup and saucer enclosed is the pretty forget-me-not box and the verses I wrote on coming home Saturday afternoon. I am very glad you like them. Please don't get the fragile box or the cup & saucer as plenty. You just keep all your money just now. I pray every day for your success in business or literary work and for a satisfactory coming out of this disagreeable little affair. Let me know when it comes off and how it all ends. I do wish it was all over. It was to be this month so it can't be far away if you are a lucky girl. I am glad you enjoy the chair. I thought the green would look well with your wall paper. I like the weathered oak, it seems so appropriate for a den or living room and particularly masculine. When is Palmer Thurston coming? I am not suspicious letting him have the verses you sent me. I don't care for it clear as well as the ones you read
